内容概要

Among the many great works created for the church liturgy by Johann Sebastian Bach, the Magnificat in D is one of the most universally loved and studied. It is thought that Bach originally composed it for Christmas 1723, soon after arriving in Leipzig to take up his musical duties at the Thomasschule, then later revised it. Bach scored the Latin text of the Magnificat for soloists, five-part chorus and an orchestra of two flutes, two oboes, three trumpets, timpani, strings and basso continuo. Powerful, compact and deeply moving, this ardent hymn of praise is today one of the most frequently performed of all masterworks of devotional music. In addition to the Magnificat, this volume contains all six Bach motets. Most of these stirring contrapuntal works, generally sung a cappella, were created, like the Magnificat, during the composer's earliest years in Leipzig. The motets were composed for special occasions, probably for memorial services of prominent Leipzig citizens. The motets are "Singet dem Herrn ein neues Lied," "Der Geist hilft unsrer Schwachheit auf," "Jesu, meine Freude," "Fürchte dich nicht, ich bin bei dir," "Komm, Jesu, komm!" and "Lobet den Herrn, alle Heiden." Along with the Magnificat in D, they have been reprinted here from the authoritative Bach-Gesellschaft edition published by Breitkopf & Härtel of Leipzig. Unabridged Dover (1995) republication of the Magnificat (D major) and Motetten, in Vols. 11 and 39, respectively, of the Bach-Gesellschaft edition of Bach's works, published by Breitkopf & Härtel, Leipzig, n.d. Instrumentation. Texts and Translations. 208pp. 93/8X121/4. Paperbound.
