<<South America on A S>>

内容概要

Challenging? Check. Rewarding? Beyond your wildest dreams. South America is made for travel-the gripping, spine-tingling, adrenaline-charged type of travel you live for. Tred the Cordillera Blanca, glide along the Amazon, explore lost cities and samba up a storm. For backpackers, by backpackers, this best-selling, unbeatable guide gives you the tools you need to create your own adventure. GET OFF THE TRAIL-emerging hot-spots, overlooked attractions, alternatives to the Inca Trail-our authors go beyond the obvious, and show you how to do the same. LIVE ON THE EDGE-the best spots for hiking, skiing, diving, surfing, rafting, paragliding, and other thrills. STRAIGHT TALK-opinionated reviews ensure you won't waste a precious peso. TREAD LIGHTLY-make a positive impact with sustainable-travel tips and volunteering opportunities. 作者简介: DANNY PALMERLEE, Coordinating Author, Ecuador Danny is a freelance travel writer and photographer who has spent most of the past decade traveling in and writing about Latin America. His work has appeared in the Los Angeles Times, Miami Herald, Dallas Morning News, San Francisco Chronicle, Houston Chronicle and other publications. His most recent stint was a year in Buenos Aires, broken only by a three-month dash through the Ecuadorian Andes while researching part of that chapter for this book. Along with other Lonely Planet titles, Danny is the coordinating author of Ecuador, Argentina and Best of Buenos Aires.
