<<江泽民文选（第2卷）>>

内容概要

The Selected Works of Jiang Zemin comprises three volumes and brings together the major works the author wrote between August 1980 and September 2004. It contains 203 reports, speeches, remarks, articles, letters, comments, orders and messages, many of which are available in English for the first time. The Selected Works of Jiang Zemin vividly records the historic process in which the third generation of the central collective leadership of the Communist Party of China (CPC), with Jiang Zemin at its core, guided the Party and the people of all China ' s ethnic groups in pushing forward socialism with Chinese characteristics. The three volumes accurately review the CPC ' s valuable experiences of leading the people in overcoming difficulties and initiating a new phase in socialism with Chinese characteristics. They fully reflect the major theoretical achievements the CPC creatively advanced by integrating the basic tenets of Marxism with China ' s realities and the characteristics of the times under the guidance of Marxism-Leninism, Mao Zedong Thought and Deng Xiaoping Theory. The Selected Works of Jiang Zemin also provides profound insight into the historic process of the inception, formation and development of the important thought of Three Represents, the author ' s most important theoretical contribution. This volume includes 59 works written between September 12, 1997 and February 1, 2000.

章节摘录

版权页：These examples are used mainly to encourage young people to study hard and get ahead. But if the methods used are incorrect or inappropriate, then the results can be counterproductive. In this respect there are many lessons to be learned. We cannot confine our young to reading books and sitting in classrooms all day long. Instead, we need to encourage them to take part in social praxes, broaden their horizons, and increase their social experiences. Schools are an important venue for cultivating talent, and education is a noble undertaking for public welfare. In China, schools of all kinds and at all levels must conscientiously implement the Party's principle on education, which is to adhere to the policy of education serving socialist modernization and being integrated with social praxes. In the new, complex environment of carrying out reform and opening up and developing a socialist market economy, it is vital that we adhere to this education principle. Higher education is developing rapidly in China and student enrollment in institutions of higher learning increased significantly last year. Nevertheless, due to our large population, it is still unrealistic for everyone to go to college. Moreover, going to college is not the only way to acquire professional skills. People with all kinds of skills are needed in society. There are outstanding people in every walk of life. In feudal times, there were many sayings extolling scholarship: "the worth of other pursuits is small, and the study of books excels them all: "the happiest moments in one's life are one's wedding night and when one passes the imperial examinations," and "studying hard will be rewarded with a golden mansion and a beautiful wife." These sayings contain the dregs of feudal thinking and reflect the economic and social backwardness of those times. People to day should not think that way. In the 21st century, our country needs to develop knowledge and labor intensive industries. Economic and social development requires diverse talents. This is an objective requirement based on our national conditions and comprehensive economic and social development. Socialist reform, opening up and modernization provide a broad stage upon which our younger generation can mature. They will undoubtedly grow into useful talent as long as they have the aspiration to devote their youth to serving the country and the people, throw themselves wholeheartedly into the great cause of building the motherland, work hard to study and master practical knowledge and skills, and contribute their wisdom and skills to the motherland and the people.
