章节摘录

As she said this she looked down at her hands, and wassurprised to see that she had put on one of the Rabbit 's littlewhite kid gloves while she was talking. "How can I have donethat?

- " she thought. "I must be growing small again." She gotup and went to the table to measure herself by it, and foundthat, as nearly as she could guess, she was now about two feethigh, and was going on shrinking rapidly: she soon foundout that the cause of this was the fan she was holding, and she dropped it hastily, just in time to avoid shrinking awayaltogether. "That was a narrow escape!
- " said Alice, a good dealfrightened at the sudden change, but very glad to find herselfstill in existence; " and now for the garden!
- " and she ran withall speed back to the little door: but, alas!

The little door wasshut again , and the little golden key was lying on the glasstable as before , " and things are worse than ever , " thoughtthe poor child , " for I never was so small as this before , never ! And I declare it 's too bad , that it is !

" As she said these words her foot slipped, and in anothermoment, splash! She was up to her chin in salt water. Her firstidea was that she had somehow fallen into the sea, "and inthat case I can go back by railway," she said to herself.
