章节摘录

Our desks and chairs are made of wood. The paper for books and newspapers is also made from wood. Even some kinds of cloth are made from it. Many people burn wood to keep themselves warm in winter. Indeed, wood is very important in our daily life. Where does wood come from?

It is taken from trees, which grow in the mountains. Do you know how it gets to us from the mountains?

First of all, trees are cut down when they grow big enough. Then the big branches are cut off. These heavy logs are gathered together in different ways and taken down to the foot of the mountains. Some of them are floated down the brooks and others are carried down on trains. People often say, "Even without stepping out of my house, I know all that has been happening in the world." I think that is quite true because they have newspapers which are of great value to us. We get all kinds of news from the newspapers. This helps us understand the developing world without having to go to the places where events are. Newspapers not only carry news, they also teach us many useful things, such as giving first aid, cooking, playing chess and taking good photos. Reading newspapers can widen our scope of knowledge. We can also learn many new things from newspapers.
