<<寻访北京的古迹>>

内容概要

Looking at Beijing withing the framework of trees,shone and water is a way of appreciating the city's heritage,based on a special relationship of man and nature,In the process of exploring Beijing's ancient ruins,what I often found as markers of the past were a well of spring,a couple of gnarled pines and sometimes a stele or an abandoned stone cave,They took on the mantle of the sites's history. In was these three aspects of nature that held Beijing's past,They helped me define and respond to the sites I was searching for.Often they maintined the atmosphere of these places,long offer rituals there ceased.They also places,me remember one place from another and gave me their energy.Moreover,they led me to the pelople of Beijing,who readily shared their knowledge and stories. 作者简介:
