章节摘录

Mine , Mine , Mine. That seems to be my toddler ' s (刚学会走路的孩子) favorite word these days. Most of the humans are by nature possessive and children are even more so. It is a basic instinct to protect what you have ; children are therefore more possessive than adults. Sharing is not a basic nature , and we are not born with the will to share , SO it has to be taught. But sharing is important. Children may not be born with that trait but they need to learn it. Reassurance The first thing you need to do is explain to the child what sharing is. One of the reasons a child refuses to share is because of the insecurity of losing that possession. That possession may be a toy , a cookie or may be Mommy !
So the first step is to reassure. Explain it to the child that she is not going to lose the thing just by sharing. By way of a practical example , let the child experience that sharing does not mean giving up your possession forever. It is letting somebody else enjoy it too.
