章节摘录

Benjamin Franklin was a great American inventor (发明家), writer and scientist. Here's a story of his childhood (小时候). As a boy, Ben loved reading. After he read a book about swimming, he soon learned to swim. He also wanted to know if there was some way to help people swim faster. He thought and slowly a picture of wooden paddles (木桨) grew in his mind. He then began to work on the paddles. A few days later the paddles were ready. Ben told his friends that he would try the paddles out the next Saturday afternoon at Green's pond. About 100 people came to the pond to watch. Ben fixed (固定) the paddles on his hands and feet. When he got into the water, he began to paddle. At first he swam slowly, then faster and faster until he was going through the water like a fish. The people who had never seen such fast swimming cheered for Ben.
