章节摘录

In the USA , older people try to eat healthy food , but the young won't eat their vegetables and take less and less exercise. In the UK , schools are trying to serve healthier food to students , giving them pasta not sausages and fruit instead of ice cream , but many students do not want to eat it and go out to fast-food shops and buy large amounts of fatty takeaway food. Some schools have stopped their students going out to buy food at lunchtime. They can go home for lunch or they can stay at school and eat the healthy food provided by the school. However , some of these students have managed to get unhealthy food - thanks to some very silly parents. A few mothers thought that the students should be allowed to eat whatever they want. These mothers bought food such as fries , pizza and pies and then went to their children's school. They gave this food to children through the school fence. In most cases , the schools have now prevented these parents bringing the food.
