章节摘录

Lesson A Ss find pictures in magazines of five celebrities and write two sentences about each one (e.g. I'm a Bono fan. His voice is amazing !) . In the next class , Ss form groups and take turns showing their pictures and reading their sentences aloud. Group members agree or disagree. Lesson B Ss choose six words from the lesson to describe people they know or celebrities , and use each one in a true sentence (e.g. , Tom Cruise. He's smart and interesting.) . In the next class , Ss form groups and take turns reading their sentences aloud. For celebrities , group members agree or disagree. Lesson C Ss find photos of several of their family members and write two to three pieces of information about each person (e.g. This is my grandpa. He's 71. He's friendly.) . In the next class , Ss form pairs and take turns introducing their family members to their partner. Lesson D Ss write as many sentences as they can about two of their friends. In the next class , Ss form groups , exchange papers , and read about one another ' s friends. Group members report on the people they heard about that they would like to meet. gg HA_ Lesson A Ss write six sentences about typical mornings in their homes. Ss say what they or their family members do and do not do. In the next class. a few Ss tell the class about their family members ' mornings. Lesson B Ss write three questions for a questionnaire on weekly routines. Ss cannot repeat any of the questions or information asked for in Exercise 2. In the next class. Ss form pairs , look at both sets of questions , and choose four of the questions for a questionnaire. Each pair then joins another pair. Pairs then take turns asking and answering the questions. Encourage Ss to give more information than simple yes and no answers. Lesson C Ss write four questions that they think are good to ask when they meet someone for the first time. Ss then answer those questions with their own information , starting their answers with Yeah , No, or Well. In the next class , each S asks two other Ss the questions to see if any of their answers are the same. When Ss answer, remind them to answer more than just yes and no and to use Well if they need time or the answer is not a simple yes or no. Lesson D Ss find a partner and write down each other's e-mail addresses. Before the next class. S1 sends S2 an e-mail message about daily routines or interests. S2 responds to the message. If Ss do not have access to a computer , then they each write a paper " e - mail " message to their partners , exchange messages in the next class , and write a reply.
