章节摘录

Before the 1980s , models were just beautiful people in magazine photographs. People knew very little about them. They didn't know how old they were , where they lived or what their favorite sports were. Most people didn't even know their names. Then came the 1980s , the era (时代) of the supermodel. This was when some models be-came So famous that they became as well known as Hollywood film stars. Most people to day have heard of Naomi Campbell , KateMoss , Elle Macpherson , Claudia Schiffer and the other supermodels. Stories about the mapppear in magazines. Journalists interview them. Television documentaries have been made about their lives. There are also hundreds of supermodel websites created by fans.On these websites , fans include information about the models ' weight , shoe size and hair color. One of the reasons these models became So famous was the huge amounts of money they were paid. Canadian supermodel Linda Evangelista once said。 “ I won ' t get out of bed for less than$10 , 000 (£ 6500) a day. ” Claudia Schiffer had a four-year contract (合同) with the cosmetics (化妆品) company Revlon. The company paid her £ 4 , 000 , 000 for just thirty days' work per year-that's more than £ 130 , 000 per day !

Supermodels don't make their money just from posing for the camera or walking down the catwalk. They have discovered many other areas where they can market themselves : films , television shows , exercise videos , calendars , and even the lingerie (女内衣) business. Elle Macp her son has her own under-wear company which makes millions of pounds a year.
