内容概要

The effects of Deng Xiaoping's 'Four Modernisations' campaign are still being felt in China today - in its built environment, in society, and in spaces where the two overlap. In Themeless Parks, photographer Dustin Shum turns his attention to the lattermost facet of contemporary Chinese urban life: the countless city parks created as part of the 'City Beautiful' movement. Viewed through a filter of personal interpretation, each image strikes the viewer as absorbingly odd or even oddly beautiful, with each contributing a fragment to a larger narrative of a nation in the throes of change.
